Introduction

Associations are the core of anyone's Bocconi experience. Half of what you will learn and who you will meet originates in associations. There is where you will gain competences on the field, both on practical activities, like writing or organizing events, and theoretical ones, deepening your knowledge in your field of interest.

It is also where you are likely to meet your best friends of these years. There are more than 100 associations at Bocconi dealing with any possible subject you might like!

You will be able to meet their members on campus during the "Associations on Display" week starting on Sept. 9th, as well as read about them in this brochure that B.lab has created in collaboration with many associations to guide you through your potential choices.

We strongly recommend to join associations from the very first day of University, as such an early involvement will allow you to get the best out of the experience!

BOCCONI STUDENTS FORENSIC FINANCE SOCIETY

@bsffsbocconi

This year, we noticed something missing in our community: financial crime investigation — a crucial topic too often overlooked. Every year, over $2 billion is lost to financial crimes. That's money that could fund better infrastructure, healthcare, education, and the prosperity of society. That's why we founded Bocconi Students Forensic Finance Society (BSFFS). Even though we just started, our mission is ambitious: to impact the world by proving that through research and knowledge, we can help build a safer, fairer, and more prosperous future.

Our Divisions:

- Investigation Lab: explores fraud cases from four perspectives — legal, psychological, financial, and cybersecurity.
- Italian Organized Crime Division: analyses the geopolitical, economic, and societal impact of organized crime on Italy's regions.
- Events: we want to bring the fight against financial crime to the forefront, hosting leading magistrates, global institutions, and top organizations such as the OECD and Guardia di Finanza.

 Our Team We're already 16 determined people, but we're looking for more. If you believe in our vision, join us and help us make an impact.

 How to Join Visit our website: bsffs.com Meet us at Associations on Display – September 11th, grab our QR code, and join the movement. We'll be waiting with cool merch and even cooler people. We are ready to take this fight, are you?

ECONOMIC SOCIETY FOR BOCCONI STUDENTS

Founded in 2014, ESBS is Bocconi's oldest economics-focused student association, bringing together ~50 undergraduate and graduate fellows and a 200+ alumni network to foster rigorous, open discussion on economic research and policy. What we do:

- Seminars are our core: they represent an invaluable opportunity for learning and being exposed to recent academic research. We have three discussion groups - Micro, Macro and Applied Economics - where members present their original work or academic papers of their interest and discuss results with other fellows.
- Open events for the Bocconi community, where we get the chance to listen to and engage directly with researchers and professionals at the frontier of knowledge, learning about their work.
- Network: our alumni community, built over the Society's 10+ years of activity, is making an impact in both academia and industry around the world. A Mentorship Program launched in 2024 connects fellows with our brilliant alumni, offering an opportunity for guidance and experienced advice.

Affiliate Program: Starting AY 2025/26, a dedicated track for 1st - 2nd year Bachelor students offers introductory reading groups and workshops, to get a taste of the rigor of academic discussion in a more accessible way. Affiliates will also be assigned a Fellow buddy for guidance. Progression to Fellow is possible after an informal interview at the end of year 2.

Roles and duties: Fellows are expected to present at least once per academic year within their discussion group; affiliates join reading groups and one workshop per semester. Event cadence varies by term.

Recruitment: We recruit twice a year, in September and in February. Applications will open on Monday, September 8th at 10:00 am, and close on September 21st. After an online application, selected candidates will be invited to an informal online interview. Keep in mind that we recruit on a rolling basis, so early application is encouraged. We are looking for curious, motivated individuals with a genuine passion for economics and policy, and an interest in delving into its complexities.

BOCCONI STUDENTS FOR LAW AND BUSINESS

Bocconi Students for Law and Business was born from the complementarity between economic and legal subjects, aiming to create a bridge between the two disciplines, thus constituting a unique entity in the associative panorama of our university. The purpose of the association is to create a social, human and educational network between aspiring professionals in both sectors. It is for this reason that it hosts members enrolled in courses other than the master's degree in law, in such a way as to cultivate the exchange between different forma mentis that, however, in fact, interact with the same processes, albeit from different points of view.

The vision underlying the project is in fact to fill a void between these two worlds, with the belief that networking and debate opportunities between the respective groups can only enrich the members both in terms of knowledge and connections, the latter being fundamental in today's world of work.

STUDENTS FOR HUMANITY

Students for Humanity Bocconi was founded in 2011 at Bocconi University with the aim of promoting the values of solidarity and social responsibility within the Milanese academic environment. Since then, we have grown into a point of reference for students who want to make a difference, both inside and outside the classroom. We offer concrete opportunities for volunteering: from clothing drives to blood and bone marrow donations in collaboration with AVIS and ADMO, as well as support for Milan-based organizations such as Opera San Francesco and Sosteniamoci per le Strade by WeCare. We also collaborate with various external organizations that provide volunteering opportunities of different types and durations. Alongside volunteering, we organize events and conferences on topics such as international cooperation and global relations, also hosting direct testimonies from war correspondents and doctors working in conflict zones. We also curate a newsletter dedicated to these themes, which is regularly published on our Instagram profile. The association is structured into different divisions, each with a specific function: volunteering desk, marketing, events, newsletter, and awareness.

BOCCONI STUDENTS AGAINST ORGANIZED CRIME

BSOC has been, for ten years now, the first association at Bocconi dedicated to exploring issues related to organized crime. Within it, each member has the opportunity to broaden their knowledge of the phenomenon through numerous projects, always structured with an interdisciplinary approach and drawing both on their own expertise and on the skills acquired in the diverse academic context of our community. The association is organized into three closely interconnected areas: Events, Media, and Reform, which are respectively responsible for developing proposals for meetings with experts, managing communication channels and the website, and writing articles, analytical papers, and event reports. If you want to play your part in spreading awareness and supporting a culture of anti-mafia and legality, while engaging with and writing about both past and present key figures, BSOC is the association for you.

Bsid publishes social content, related to Interior Design, and organizes events with experts in the sector. I attach, for example, some photos of the event held last February with the CEO of Gufram, Charley Vezza and the journalist Marilena Pitino.

Bocconi d'Inchiostro has been the literary salon of Bocconi University since 2012, as well as one of its largest student associations. We position ourselves as the point of intersection between students and the world of literature, tracing the lines of mutual influence that exist between the written word and the society in which we live. Ours is a dynamic and close-knit reality, in which everyone is free to live their passion for literature and art in general.

We organize literary events in the spaces of the university and we had the great honour of meeting important writers and artists, such as Nobel Prize Svetlana Aleksievič, Strega Prizes Alessandro Barbero, Margaret Mazzantini, Niccolò Ammaniti, Melania G. Mazzucco and Dacia Maraini, and intellectuals Mogol and Roberto Calasso.

Among the most anticipated moments of sociality are Book Clubs, on a monthly (or almost monthly) basis, and Share My Word, during which each interested member can share one of their poems or short stories.

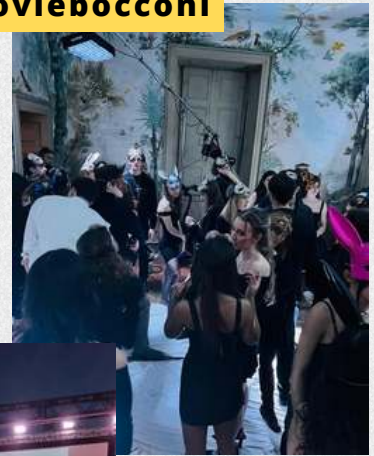

Additionally, among the ranks of Bocconi d'Inchiostro Turbine Magazine was born, a cultural laboratory and the first independent paper magazine written by Bocconi students.

We regularly organize on-campus screenings that span eras and directors, while always keeping the artistic and social value of the medium in focus. At our events, we explore the present state of cinema, by hosting actors, directors, producers, and critics, and delving deep into both the artistic and commercial sides of film production. Through our social channels, we continue to provide reviews and deep dives, while also keeping an eye on career opportunities in the industry. And beyond all that, you'll always find people eager to talk about movies; whether it's catching the latest releases in theaters or rediscovering the classics.

BOCCONI TV

Bocconi Tv was founded in 2010 as the official web TV for the University students. From the very beginning, it established itself as a free space where people could explore their creativity and produce content for the university audience, such as short films, feature films, entertaining and informative formats, film reviews, and journalistic articles. The magic happens in the organization's editorial office, located on the University Campus and equipped with professional equipment for filming, recording, and photographing. The activities are supported by some professors, who collaborate with the members and allow them to acquire insights into the world of entertainment. Each member is free to develop their own ideas and propose new formats, then personally lead them and follow their development. At Bocconi Tv, we believe in equal opportunities for students and in the power of collaboration to accentuate the individual potential of each person: there is no healthier competition than that born from mutual respect and honest and genuine commitment to something you believe in.
